Excerpt: . . . 11 make reform of the American high school a national priority. I believe it is time to apply the bipartisan principles of No Child Left Behind to grades 9 through 12. President Bush's 2006 budget would provide 1.5 billion for a high school initiative to improve the academic achievement of at-risk students and measure performance annually to ensure all students get the help they need. The budget also contains unprecedented financial support for students taking advanced placement classes, new enhanced Pell grants to encourage more challenging course work, and community college access grants to let students earn college level credit in high school for both academic and technical courses. The key to success, of course, is a highly qualified teacher in every classroom, and the President's budget would make permanent the increase on loan forgiveness from 5,000 to...
